OUR PROGRESS

At present, the project partners are working on the Guide for Social Intervention. In each partner country, the project team is conducting field and desk research to assess and develop concertation processes, strengthen articulation mechanisms and improve communication between different entities and social actors working on education, employment and social inclusion policies. From these results, the partnership aims to identify and analyse human capital, employment, economic potential and inclusive capital in each partner country. From the findings of the Guide for Social Intervention, partners will then begin to work on developing a Training Course and Handbook for adult educators and community workers, a Best Practices Toolkit and an eLearning platform. These results will aim to enable robust support for strategic direction, decision making, planning, and practice in the field of social action.

NEXT STEPS

From the findings of the Guide for Social Intervention, partners will then begin to work on developing a Training Course and Handbook for adult educators and community workers, a Best Practices Toolkit and an eLearning platform. These results will aim to enable robust support for strategic direction, decision making, planning, and practice in the field of social action.
