THE PROJECT

Building up on the Erasmus+ project "SIMPLY INCLUDED - Social inclusion of migrants in vocational education and training", KulturLife leads the consortium for the project "SIMPLY digitally INCLUDED".

The Corona pandemic has significantly complicated the integration of people with migration or refugee background into the labor market by interrupting language and training courses and only resuming them in a digital format months later. This target group was more affected by the changes than other groups. Therefore, with our project we want to provide support to be successful on the European labor market. We also want to empower teachers to be able to use digital methods and to feel comfortable and at ease in digital teaching formats. "SIMPLY digitally INCLUDED" is aimed at people with a migration history, refugees and teachers, and existing materials are to be transferred into digital formats.

"SIMPLY digitally INCLUDED" addresses these problems and creates solutions that'll support VET learners as well as teachers in working with digital tools and methods. The project therefore provides project results like a podcast series with complementary material and a digital toolkit for VET teachers to help transfer existing materials into digital formats. The consortium is happy to start the common work on the project and we will keep you updated on the run!

At the end of May, the project partners met for the first time in person at the Sweden, in Lund. At the project meeting we agreed on how we will work together on the preparation of the podcasts and how they will be structured. All partners are responsible for one personal story of a student with migration background and in addition we will also prepare a short piece on learning sessions.

To make it accessible to everyone, not only to those listening, the project partners have also prepared short summaries, which we have edited as fact sheets for all five interviews and the five papers.

In mid-January, the project held a two-day Online training for teachers and youth workers. The first day was dedicated to peer-to-peer learning and the transfer of analogue teaching methods to digital formats. On the second day, the management of online violence and digital competences for teachers were presented. After presentations, there was time for online consultation and networking, and we finished with general discussion.
